COMMENTS OF THE PRESS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

Queen Victoria Said to Have Demanded a Personal Explanation of the Prince's Conduct in Connection With the Baccarat Scandal—A Retired Officer Defends Cummings.

LONDON, June 11.—The outspoken newspaper press comments upon the part the Prince of Wales played in the baccarat scandal continue to be the sensation of the day in England and elsewhere. A newspaper reporter, who was present at the Prince of Wales at Ascot to-day when the race for the gold cup was won by Lord Harrington's Marston, telegraphed that the Prince of Wales, who witnessed that event, was in a very silly frame of mind caused, it would appear, by the storm of adverse newspaper criticisms which have swept and are still sweeping over the heir-apparent. The religious press, as well as the secular, is full of comments upon the Prince of Wales' conduct. The Christian World, an influential independent religious weekly paper, has published the following comments upon the Prince of Wales' conduct, in its issue of to-day:

THE PRINCE OF WALES.—The Prince of Wales is a man of great ability and high character. He is a man of great ability and high character. He is a man of great ability and high character.

LACEY'S REPORT

The Comptroller of the Currency on the Keystone National Bank.

A FULL REPLY TO THE PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE COUNCIL.

Bank Examiner Drew Suspended Pending an Investigation—Commissioner Morgan and the Catholic Indian Mission—The Crow Land Reservation Grazing Permits—Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—Mr. Lacey, Comptroller of the Currency, has completed the preparation of his report in regard to the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia and will submit it to the President this afternoon. It is a very long and exhaustive document and gives a detailed and circumstantial account of the Comptroller's action in the matter, together with the reports received from the examiner in charge, on which such an action was mainly based. The President will transmit it to the Mayor of Philadelphia as a full and complete report on the matter. Mr. Lacey, who is a member of the Council, Committee of the Council, Comptroller Lacey will not appear before the local committee conducting the present investigation in Philadelphia. The authorities here have concluded that it would be establishing a bad precedent to allow any body other than Congress to investigate Federal officials and to have access to official records of the Government. It is expected that the Comptroller's report will supply all the information in that officer's possession required by the committee conducting the investigation. A fact that does not appear to be generally known is that Bank Examiner Drew has been suspended from duty pending the result of an investigation into his administration, and has been instructed to examine no more banks in his district for the present.

THE IMMIGRATION COMMISSION.

MRS. CHARLOTTE SMITH URGES THE APPOINTMENT OF TWO WOMEN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—During the last two years the relations existing between the Indian Commissioner Morgan and the Catholic Bureau of Indian Missions have been what strained. This difficulty had its origin in the Catholic opposition to Mr. Morgan's policy of substituting government schools for denominational schools on Indian reservations. Since that time there has been no personal communication between the commissioner and Father Stephan, the head of the Catholic Bureau. Under those circumstances the disbursement of the money paid by the Government to the Catholic Bureau for carrying on the Catholic mission schools has been attended with difficulty and at times with serious embarrassment. Finding that their work was retarded by the continuance of this condition of affairs, Rev. Father Charles D. D., who is in charge of the Bureau during the absence of Father Stephan in Europe, has had a conference with Mr. Morgan, at which an amicable understanding of the reservation has been reached. Mr. Morgan, however, plainly stated that while the present number of contract schools would be continued during the next year as directed by recent legislation, no new schools will be authorized.

DEPARTMENT MATTERS.

COMMISSIONER MORGAN AND THE CATHOLIC BUREAU OF INDIAN MISSIONS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—During the last two years the relations existing between the Indian Commissioner Morgan and the Catholic Bureau of Indian Missions have been what strained. This difficulty had its origin in the Catholic opposition to Mr. Morgan's policy of substituting government schools for denominational schools on Indian reservations. Since that time there has been no personal communication between the commissioner and Father Stephan, the head of the Catholic Bureau. Under those circumstances the disbursement of the money paid by the Government to the Catholic Bureau for carrying on the Catholic mission schools has been attended with difficulty and at times with serious embarrassment. Finding that their work was retarded by the continuance of this condition of affairs, Rev. Father Charles D. D., who is in charge of the Bureau during the absence of Father Stephan in Europe, has had a conference with Mr. Morgan, at which an amicable understanding of the reservation has been reached. Mr. Morgan, however, plainly stated that while the present number of contract schools would be continued during the next year as directed by recent legislation, no new schools will be authorized.

THE CROW INDIAN RESERVATION.

The Interior Department acting upon the recommendation of the Indian Office has adopted a new departure in the management of the grazing matters upon the Crow Indian Reservation in Montana. The Crow Indians are authorized by the act of Congress of April 11, 1882 (22 Statutes, 48), to permit cattle grazing upon their reservation; but under previous arrangements much friction between cattlemen and the reservation had resulted from the indiscriminate pasturing of the portions of the reservation set apart for grazing, proving a fruitful source of trouble and annoyance, not only to the agency management, but to the department and the Indian Office. To obviate these difficulties the reservation has been divided into five grazing districts, and proposals for grazing the same were invited by advertisement. The proposals were opened at the Crow Agency on the 1st instant by Agent Wyman and United States Indian Inspector Canby, and permit agreements, covering each said district, were executed by Agent Wyman, with the highest bidder, and the reservation was to be in force for a period of three years from July 1, prox. This arrangement will relieve the department of much annoyance, and is believed to be decidedly better for the Indians and the cattlemen. It brings the management of the whole business under the direct control of the department, and thus relieves the agency of the responsibility of the reservation. The improved holdings and herds of the Indians are to be of all time kept secure from interference by the stock or employees of the cattlemen, and the grazing ranges occupied by cattle belonging to the Indians are to be kept undisturbed.

THE PLAN OF MR. HARLOW, OF ST. LOUIS.

The plan of Mr. Harlow, of St. Louis, to utilize the street car system of St. Louis for mail service, is being considered by the Postmaster-General. Mr. Harlow's idea is to place a postal car on every electric or cable line in the city. He has made several trips a day, the letters for delivery to be assorted in the car while running. He thinks the postal car will run in this way attached to the regular passenger trains and without interfering with the conveniences of the traveling public, or more sub-post-offices would have to be established on every line and the carriers for the home delivery service would get collecting at these sub-stations, meeting the postal car every time it arrived. These thirty or forty sub-stations would take the place of the present 15 large sub-stations. The service would amount to fully $2,000 a year, he thinks. He has consulted the managers of several St. Louis street car lines on the subject and they all agreed with him that the

BISHOP KNIGHT'S REQUEST.
He Wished to Be Buried in a Plain Pine Wood Coffin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 11.—Bishop Knight left a will and in it a strange request.
It was that his body might be buried in a plain pine coffin, and that no other form of coffining be used when his body was lowered into the grave. No pine coffin could be readily secured and one has been made to order. The casket was completed yesterday afternoon and the Bishop's remains are now inclosed in it. About 9:30 o'clock in the evening the body was borne by the active pallbearers from the residence to the cathedral, a distance of one block. There were no public services at the cathedral. After the arrival of the body palls and prayers were read in subdued tones by the clergymen present. The casket was placed in the main aisle, near the chancel, with the head raised toward the altar.

of New York, the President of the Nicaraguan Canal Construction Co., who delivered a speech in which he reviewed the progress of the Nicaraguan enterprise, pointed out the practicability of the construction of the canal, the prospects of its paying as a finana summary end by Adj. Gen. Mullen, who issued an order mustering out the Third Regiment. The trouble arose over the dishonorable discharge of Serg. James of Company A, Minneapolis, by the Colonel of the regiment, which was followed by an order of the Adjutant-General, which was taken as an inof the companies are ordered disbanded and others are made part of the First and Second

NEW STATE LAWS.

The Pool and School Text Books Acts to Go Into Effect Soon.

POOL ROOM OPERATORS PREPARING TO MAKE A FIGHT IN THE COURTS.

What the School Text Books Commission Is Expected to Do—Country Schools Want Uniformity and Cheapness—The Companies Closely Watching Developments.

Within the next two weeks the police will be called upon to enforce the new law applying to pool-selling and bookmaking. The last session of the Assembly passed an act prohibiting the sale of pools on all sporting events that occur outside of the State. In other words, while it permits the sale of pools and book-making on races run in St. Louis, Kansas City and elsewhere in the State, it is an offense when this is done on events in Illinois, Tennessee, New York or any other State. It goes into effect on the 22d inst., and the pool-rooms are making preparations to fight the provisions will be raised by the police.
The owners of the pool-rooms are giving the matter much attention, and are making preparations to fight the act. The bookmaking interests have not yet formed an organization, but it is considered probable that they will. Up to the present they have done nothing further than discuss the matter among themselves. They are all, as a matter of course, averse to the law, and agree that it ought to be bitterly opposed.
The rooms controlled by Furber, Lyons, Wiseman, Donovan and Levy are taking the most interest in the subject, and will handle the battle from the St. Louis side of the line. The Kansas City bookmakers are also expected to lead a helping hand.

PREPARING FOR FIGHT.
Arthur Furber, one of the proprietors of Furber's Turf Exchange, said this morning that it had been practically decided to retain a counsel and test the law in the highest courts, if necessary. "We expect," he said, "to knock out this act on the grounds of unconstitutionality, and we are ready to proceed with the test case. We do not look for any interference from the police while the test case is pending in court. If it is decided in favor of the State all we can do is to acquiesce, but we do not think that such a law can stand. It sounds strange, indeed, to have a law on our statute book that legitimizes the selling of pools and book-making on events in Missouri and yet makes it a crime when this is done on the races and the like that occur outside of the State."

Others connected with pool-rooms spoke in the same vein, and it is certain that all the rooms will be open to do business as usual, the day the new act becomes operative. There is a big season of racing ahead in Chicago and the pool-rooms do not propose to miss the golden opportunities they afford without making a struggle.
So the St. Louis Police Department is concerned it will be obliged to enforce the law just as soon as it is in force and this will be the case twelve days hence.

School Text Books Commission.

The school text books act also goes into effect on the 22d inst., and already the book interests are closely watching developments. The Governor is required under the act to appoint a commission to select a uniform set of text books for use in the public schools, but St. Louis is excepted from its provisions.
The bill was passed through the efforts of farmer members of the Legislature. The movement to secure uniform and cheap text books for the use of the children of the public schools of the State was strongly endorsed by the Farmers and Laborers' Union, and was supported by all its members in the Assembly. When the bill was passed and signed, those who had given it their support expressed the hope that the bill would commitment that would steer clear of jobbery and perform in a satisfactory manner the duties expected of it. The commission was soon appointed and the book companies are, of course, interested in the selection of the commission. The American Text Book Co., which is understood to represent a large majority of the companies publishing text books, with the act, it is understood, has no difficulty in getting what it wants, the commission does not undertake to have an entirely new system of books compiled.
This would be a costly experiment and is not expected that the commission will take such action. The commission will establish supply depots and will carries out the intention of the act, secure the books at a lower rate than is now charged by the publishers. It is feared by some of the jobbing-houses that the commission will make such arrangements as to get the books direct from the publishers, which would have the effect of cutting off a goodly portion of the business of the jobbers. The commission is expected to get to work as soon as it is appointed by the Governor.

MISSOURI MATTERS.

The Firemen's Tournament at Joplin—Water Works Sold.

The "great day" of contests at the tournament began at 10 o'clock this morning. The water works were sold at Huntington yesterday under deed of trust to the City of St. Louis, which was the result of the sale of the water works to the City of St. Louis, which was the result

TO THE QUEEN'S TASTE.

MRS. JOHN SKEEWOOD WRITES ON ROYAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

Louis XIV. Was a Magnificent Entertainer-Queen Anne Consulted With Her Cook-Fat Louis XVIII. Had a Remarkable Stomach.

Written for the Post-Dispatch. Copyright.

Royal entertainments have this advantage: they open to the observer the historical past, and the pictures, gems of art, and interesting collections, of which palaces are the great conservators.

It seems that Louis XIV., called Le Grand Monarque, Louis, the magnificent, was a master of the art of entertaining. Under him the science of giving banquets received in common with the other sciences great progressive impulse. There still remains some memory of these festivals, which all Europe went to see, and these tournaments, where for the time the lance and the knightly suits of armor.

The festivals always ended with a sumptuous banquet where were displayed huge center pieces of gold and silver, painting and sculpture, all being tributary to the hero of the occasion.

This fashion made the fame of Versailles, which was written beside that of the hero of the occasion. To-day monarchs content themselves with having these center pieces of cake, and the monarchs of the future ages will have their great feasts for future ages.

Toward the end of the reign of Louis XIV., the cook, the cordon bleu, received favorably his notice. Louis XIV. was a great lover of his patron, he was called in after dinner. It is mentioned in some of the English memoirs that this fashion was not unknown so late as fifty years ago, in great houses in England, where the cook was called in to his white cap and apron, publicly thanked for his efforts and a glass of wine offered him by his master, all the company drinking his health.

Mme. de Maintenon, whose gloomy sway over the old King reduced the gay court to a dreary monotony, was a great lover of good food, and was a great lover of good food, and was a great lover of good food.

Queen Anne, however, was fond of good food, and was a great lover of good food, and was a great lover of good food.

arts. "The sauce is the ambassador of a king." "With such a sauce a man could eat his grandfather." But leaving France for other shores, for France has no monarch to entertain us now, let us see how two reigning monarchs entertain.

A presentation at the Court of St. James is a picturesque affair and worth seeing. A lady must be dressed at 11 in the morning in full court dress, which means low neck and short sleeves, with a train four yards long and three wide. She must wear a white veil and have three feathers in her hair so that she can be seen in front. White gloves are also de rigueur. The carriage approach Buckingham Palace is a long queue and the lady waits an hour or more in line, exposed to the jeers of the populace, who look in at carriage windows and make comments, laugh and amuse themselves.

Arriving in the noble quadrangle of Buckingham Palace the music of the guards' band salutes one and the stately, splendid figures of the household troops, the handmaidens in the world, sit like statues on their horses. No matter if the rain is pouring, as it generally is, neither man or horse stir.

Once inside the palace the card of entrance taken by one of the Queen's pages, some other official takes a cloak and the lady winds her way up a magnificent staircase into another gallery, one of which opens into the room of the household, in glittering uniforms and with orders, stand about in picturesque array.

The last room is filled with chairs and stool is full of ladies and gentlemen waiting for the summons to move on.

The gentlemen are all in velvet suits of black, with knee breeches and a sword, still in the fashion of the Queen's garden party.

A slight comment at the little turnstile gate tells you to take your turn; you pass on with the others, your name is loudly called, you make three little bows to the Majesty, the Prince and Princess of Wales; you hear the words "your train, madame," if you are thrown over your arm by some cavalier behind, and all is over, except that you are among the friends and see a glittering room full of people and realize that nothing is so bad as you had feared. After about one hour you and your carriage enter the home, or to your minister's for a cup of tea.

The prettiest entertainment of the jubilee was, however, the Queen's garden party given to the Rhedive of Egypt.

Now it was filled with a most picturesque crowd. The ladies, wearing all their jewels, their turbans, their robes, their dark, handsome faces, stood at the foot of a staircase which ran from the palace to the green turf. Every other man was a king, a prince, a nobleman, a great soldier, a statesman, a diplomat, a comely.

The women were all in summer costume and the grounds, full of ancient trees and fountains, artificial lakes and fountains, with refreshments, were as pretty as only a royal English park can be.
